Electrolux Global Engineer Program - Consumer Loyalty Specialist

THE GLOBAL ENGINEER PROGRAM EXPERIENCE

The Electrolux Global Engineer Program (GEP) is a proactive initiative that brings together young engineering talent across various functions and global offices of Electrolux. This program is for you, who are interested in a global, hands-on experience in an intercultural setting with the goal of securing global employment opportunities within the company upon a successful completion of the internship.

Internship with the European Loyalty team

At Electrolux, we are on an ambitious transformation journey building the capabilities, strategies and tactics to deliver a best in class ownership experience and post-purchase business. Our objective is to drive loyalty and consumer lifetime value through relevant and engaging experiences with clear consumer benefits, that both meet consumers' needs and expectations, and drive our brand position as well as new revenue. Our abilities to understand, design, develop and continuously optimize and improve key consumer journeys and associated experiences, offerings, sales and service funnels, are key enablers in this transformation. This is a great opportunity to be part of an exciting consumer-centric and data-driven growth and transformation journey.

The European Loyalty marketing team is looking for an intern to work alongside our Outbound communications marketing manager. In this role, you will be assisting in the creation & activation of best in class outbound communications be it for on-boarding consumers to their new appliances, gathering post interaction product reviews or developing a life-time communication plan. Electrolux is on a journey from delivering mass email communication to personalized and relevant interactions in an omnichannel environment.

The role reports to the European Head of Loyalty Marketing.

Alongside Outbound communications the role offers possibilities to be involved in other areas of Loyalty marketing, projects related to consumer Onboarding and services that ensure a continued product use provide a great learning environment for an ambitious team player.

A REGULAR DAY AT WORK

Outbound communications: Assisting with the creation and campaign activation of outbound communication tailored to various consumer segments - product owners, site visitors, loyalists/advocates, newsletter subscribers, & more through (SAP Marketing cloud) our outbound marketing platform.

Campaign follow up: Work alongside the Outbound communication manager and the CRO manager to analyze the performance of our campaigns.
